

Community and Living Well Together

Children can see the effect their behaviour has on others as they explore the meaning of trust.

Children are encouraged to freely express their thoughts and will make responses of faith, reflection and spiritual development.

We learn to seek forgiveness and actively forgive others.

High morale permeates throughout school as staff and children feel valued.

Attendance is overall good.

Parents feel part of the church school family and we appreciate the positive partnership we have.

"Pupils, staff and volunteers get on well together. Pupils of all ages are sensitively supported to work and play together with respect and care. They enjoy being together in mixed-age classes. Just before lunch was served, all staff and pupils joined together in saying their school prayer. It made everyone smile." (Ofsted Nov 19)
